About Cardiva Medical, Inc.

Cardiva Medical, Inc. is a privately held medical device company that designs, develops and commercializes endovascular products which help the body heal itself. In 2005, Cardiva launched its first product into the vessel closure market, the Boomerang Wire™ System, which demonstrated unsurpassed ease-of-use and safety. In January 2008, Cardiva launched its latest vessel closure system, the Cardiva Catalyst II, which incorporates haemostatic agents to accelerate the body's own coagulation pathway quickly facilitating vessel closure and healing of the vascular access site. Cardiva was presented the prestigious Frost & Sullivan Award in 2007, which recognizes entrepreneurial excellence in the U.S. angioplasty and vascular closure devices market.
